DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(4) because reference characters "4" and "5" have both been used to designate a pipe. Also, reference characters "4" and "6" have both been used to designate a pipe and reference characters "4" and "7" have both been used to designate a pipe. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Double Patenting

2. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422

Art Unit: 1792

F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

3. Claims 9-16 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-6 of U.S. Patent No. 7222439. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the patented claims anticipated the present application's claims.

§ 112, Sixth Paragraph

4. The applicant has invoked 35 U.S.C. 112, sixth paragraph, by using "means" language.

An element in a claim for a combination may be expressed as a means or step for performing a specified function without the recital of structure, material, or acts in support thereof, and such claim shall be construed to cover the corresponding structure, material, or acts described in the specification and equivalents thereof.

5. In regards to claim 9, the "Peltier element having means for extracting heat" is assumed to be the internal structure of the Peltier element; "means for heating air" is assumed to be a heater; and "means for transporting air" is assumed to be a pipe or duct.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

6. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

7. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The term "air-guiding manner" is not understood.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

9. Claims 9-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hoyle (UK Patent Application No. 2375812).

10. Hoyle teaches a work space having an outlet (2) connecting a Peltier element (first paragraph, pg. 2)(heat pump 10). The heat pump has a condenser (in duct 6), Fig.

1. The pipe has a heater (3) upstream of the condenser and communicating with the Peltier element. A fan (impeller 5) is operable to blow the air through the inlet (7). The air is cooled by the evaporator (in pipe 6) part of the Peltier element. Note: The apparatus claim 10 appears to contain method steps. These are not given patentable weight.

11. Hoyle does not teach that the workspace is a dishwasher, containing a washing basket, which recirculates the conditioned air; however, it has been held that an obvious choice in design is not patentable (In re Kuhle 188 USPQ 7). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Hoyle to create a dishwashing machine which conserves energy (pg. 2 of Hoyle) to achieve the expected result.

12. Hoyle, as modified above, does not teach an additional condenser located in the recirculation loop; however, it has been held that duplication of parts would have been obvious (In re Harza 124 USPQ 378). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Hoyle, as modified above, to create a dishwashing machine with sufficient condensing power to conserve energy to achieve the expected result.
